Good Morning Mayor,

I have a solution to the housing crisis and high costs of utility bills that will finally put your mind at peace.

I know you want what's best for everyone and so do I, please let me help you.

I more than a plan of action, because I know you would like some reassurance.

The backbone is established however and I am in the process of innovating.

I happened to read in the paper that 'TFL could help fix London's housing shortage as well as our trains' and I have developed a strategy to sustainability!

When can we meet?

Kind Regards,

Savannah
