Dear Mr Johnson,

I have been approached by a constituent about the plight of the Rohingyas. There has also been a great deal of concern in my constituency, particularly Tower Hamlets.

My constituents are concerned by reports of mass killings by in Rakhine Province by the Burmese armed forces and the thousands of refugees who have fled over the border into Bangladesh.

I would be grateful if you could update me on what action the Foreign Office are taking to put pressure on the leaders in Myanmar to put an end to this violence. What is the government doing to put pressure on Burmese authorities to observe human rights and allow access by humanitarian agencies to affected communities and refugee camps?

I would appreciate an update on this matter so that I can update my constituents and I look forward to hearing from you.

Best wishes
