Dear [REDACTED]

Thank you for your request for information which the Greater London Authority (GLA) received on 17 September 2020. Your request has been dealt with under the Freedom of Information Act 2000

You asked for:

I simply require under the FOIA to know if a zone for the whole of London is being planned for the future?

Our response to your request is as follows:

The Mayor's wider approach to paying for road use is set out in his Transport Strategy. TfL continues to investigate whether there are ways to better reflect distance driven, emissions, time and road danger in a smart and fair system. New technologies could offer the potential for more sophisticated models of paying for road use in the longer term, but any future proposals would need to be preceded by detailed feasibility work and subject to consultation. There are currently no plans for a London-wide congestion charge.

The Mayor's priority is to continue to deliver the expansion of the ULEZ, which will go-live in October 2021. Londoners deserve clean air at all times, not just temporarily during lockdown.

If you have any further questions relating to this matter, please contact me, quoting the reference at the top of this letter.

Yours sincerely
