Our ref: MGLA260719-8697

Date: 22 August 2018

Dear [REDACTED]

Thank you for your request for information which the GLA received on 26 June 2019. Your request has been dealt with under the Environmental Information Regulations (EIR) 2004.

Our response to your request is as follows:

- 1. Please provide the precise number and list of locations/names of primary and secondary schools in London where air pollution breaches legal limit, according to your most recent data (I believe the same metric has been used across the years, of annual mean limit of 40ug/m³ NO₂, but please clarify). If you are able to provide more recent data without breaching the s12 time limit please do. If not, please provide underlying data from May 2018 (see below). Please provide as a spreadsheet with school name, pollution level, and any location information such as borough.*

This data is available on the London datastore. The most recent available data is from the London Atmospheric Emission Inventory (LAEI) 2016 and was published in April 2019. The data used for the 2018 report is LAEI 2013.

Please find attached a list and a summary of all Educational Establishments in London and NO₂ levels based on both the LAEI 2013 update and LAEI 2016. The list has been taken from the register of educational establishments in England and Wales, maintained by the Department for Education, and provides information on establishments providing compulsory, higher and further education. It was downloaded on 21/03/2019, just before the release of the LAEI 2016. The attached spreadsheet has recently been published as part of the LAEI 2016 stats on Datastore here. It can be filtered by "Phase of Education" and "NO₂ Average" in order to obtain the number of schools breaching legal limit. These figures show that state Primary Schools over the NO₂ limit (40ug/m³) go from 371 in the LAEI 2013 update to 369 in 2016, and state Secondary Schools from 81 in 2013 to 86 in 2016.

- 2. Please list the schools with "dangerously high" levels and explain metrics for this (language taken from 2018 report quoted above).*

In this report "dangerously high" is used to refer to levels of nitrogen dioxide above the legal limit of 40 µgm⁻³. This limit is informed by the World Health Organization's air quality guidelines for the protection of human health, more information about these guidelines is available here:

https://www.who.int/phe/health_topics/outdoorair/outdoorair_agg/en/.

The schools are listed in the attached spreadsheet.

3. All email communication with Lambeth council regarding broken Brixton Road air quality monitoring station, from 1st Jan 2018 to today (26th July 2019).

Please see emails attached.

If you have any further questions relating to this matter, please contact me, quoting the reference at the top of this letter.

Yours sincerely

Senior Policy & Programme Officer - Air Quality

Hi [REDACTED]

I'm really sorry the Brixton Road AQ station still isn't working. Lambeth takes this very seriously and I've cc'd into this email [REDACTED] who works in Cllr Holland's office, Cabinet Member for Environment and Clean Air, and my line manager Andrew Burton, Assistant Director for Highways, Capital Projects and Sustainability.

We've been doing all we can to get the AQ station up and running, but unfortunately this won't happen for the beginning of January. We are currently at the stage whereby we need UKPN to disconnect the power supply. Once this has been done, ET will visit to fit the new station, and afterwards UKPN will then need to reconnect power.

We've been let down by suppliers several times. Cllr Holland has already written to the chief executive of UKPN asking that this is made a priority. [REDACTED] has been doing all he can to get this fixed and has arranged with ET to reserve time ready to fit the new station as soon as possible.

We'd welcome any help from the Mayor, including writing to the chief executives for UKPN and ET asking that this work is made a priority.

We will be releasing a press statement regarding this and I've cc'd [REDACTED] from our Press Office in case the GLA wants to be part of this?

Kind regards

Hi [REDACTED]

I tried to call today.

I'm told the monitoring station at Brixton is still out of action and we are very concerned this will not be available from start of 2019. As you know this is a sensitive site as it was the first to breach legal hourly limits in 2018 and we need to continue to evaluate this location very closely. No monitoring station will attract a lot of criticism.

Please can you provide an update as soon as possible?

Thanks,

Did you provide her with a date when the monitoring station will reopen? This is a pretty big priority for us given the heightened scrutiny now we've introduced the LEBZ and it's a bit concerning it's been out of commission since August (although I do appreciate suppliers can be a nightmare).

Also when was this heavy rain fall in case we're asked?

Hi [REDACTED]

Unfortunately during heavy rain the station flooded and all the equipment was damaged. The equipment was taken to the workshop by ET and has been repaired. We also ordered a new (waterproof!) enclosure, which has taken ages to arrive. But the supplier has told us the enclosure should arrive sometime this week and then the station will be up-and-running again.

I've cc'd [REDACTED] into this email who is the Sustainability Officer for the area. [REDACTED] please let [REDACTED] know when you have a confirmed date the station will re-open. Thank you.

Thank you very much for your help with this. The last update we've had from UKPN is the email I forwarded below yesterday.
Sorry to ask more questions, but what exactly is it that TfL wants UKPN to do? Does TfL think that it is possible for the work to be carried out on Sunday?

Hi [REDACTED]
We've escalated at TfL. They have confirmed they responded to UKPN's request within an hour. They have asked that UKPN put in cycle provision for the required works and TfL are now waiting to hear back from TfL (although this may have happened since the conversation took place). TfL are aware this is a priority and if you have any further issues please let me know.

Importance: High

Hi [REDACTED]

Unfortunately we are receiving complaints on a daily basis regarding Brixton Air Quality station not working. We are now at the stage whereby UKPN were supposed to reconnect power this Sunday and ET/KCL would have calibrated the station on Monday. Therefore, on Monday the station would have been up-and-running again and data available on the London Air website. But as per the below, TfL are unable to issue a permit for UKPN to carry out the work. Therefore we will need to wait 10 days for the power to be reconnected and also rebook ET/KCL to visit to carry out the calibration. I think we will receive a lot of criticism regarding this.

Is there any chance you are able to speak to someone at TfL please and ask them to issue the permit asap? We are desperate for the station to monitor the air quality as soon as possible.

Thank you

Hi [REDACTED]

I tried calling [REDACTED] as [REDACTED] suggested but couldn't get through, so I spoke to [REDACTED] at TfL who advised that she could not approved the TM as it was and that we would need to amended the current TM to show "Do not overtake cycles sign" she also mention about needing 10 working dates and also because of the location might even need 3 days consultation.

The other option [REDACTED] suggested was to wheelbarrow the spoil to a secondary road, however this will require to suspend some red route parking/loading bays and then again we need to give them 10 working days notice to go through the normal procedure.

At this moment in time, because TfL have/will reject our TM application it's more likely that works will have to be reschedule but let me be clear UKPN have the resources available to carry out the works this Sunday as promised but the main setback is TfL not approving our TM plan which we need (Slip reference) in order for us to submit a permit request to TfL which will also need to be granted by Friday for any chance of works being carry out on Sunday.

The Lambeth electrician was supposed to visit this morning to fit the backboard, but unfortunately he is ill. I'm now working with colleagues in Lambeth Facilities Management for another electrician to visit as soon as possible.

We've already pencilled in UKPN to visit this Sunday and ET to then recalibrate the equipment on Monday, but we need the backboard to be fitted first before these dates can be confirmed.

Hi [REDACTED]
You may have already spoken to them but I've been on the phone to King's (I rang them first thing this morning and they've just got back to me). They think there may be an issue with the site, and they now need to recalibrate. They are part way through the audit progress but for now they have re-set the site to 3 hours. We expect to know more toward the end of the week, call the duty forecaster or [REDACTED]
I was surprised by the hours racking up so quickly if I'm honest., and hope it is equipment issues rather than true readings. I will let you know if I hear anymore but think we are safe for now,

Hi [REDACTED]
This is really bad news and yes we definitely want to do positive comms about this. I've copied into this email [REDACTED] from our press office and [REDACTED] from Cllr Holland's office (Cabinet Member for Environment & Clean Air) who will lead on the comms for Lambeth.
Kind regards

Hi [REDACTED]

As you are probably aware the Brixton Road site is poised to exceed the NO₂ hourly limit. It will be the first site to exceed for NO₂, as you know Bondway has already gone for PM. We will most likely do some proactive comms [REDACTED] this (once it exceeds), were you planning on doing the same?

Hi [REDACTED]
Thank you for your email and we want to get this fully resolved- especially if it shows that air quality is a lot better in Brixton than the monitor is currently showing. But before committing to the additional audit, can you please let me know how much this will cost? I can't agree to the work until we have the total cost in writing and a PO has been successfully raised. I've copied [REDACTED] into this email as I'm now going on annual leave until Tuesday, so he'll deal with this in my absence. Furthermore, [REDACTED] manages the budget for air quality, so it's best to liaise directly with him.

The ET engineer attended on the 8th and has confirmed that the cylinder is contaminated and needs replacing. We are actioning that. However we still do not have enough information to confirm if there is a problem with the instrument and be confident in the data since it was reinstalled. Ideally we would need another audit to check the new cylinder, and confirm the instruments response when set up to a known good cylinder. Would you be willing to pay for this additional audit ?

Feel free to call if you want to discuss in more detail the findings.

Yes I left it off over weekend to ensure all looked sensible, which it does so I re-enabled data dissemination and validated from Friday when the spare went in. Now we just await ET investigating which bit(s) of the system were the problem.

The spare analyser went in just before midday. [REDACTED] the ET engineer tested this incoming analyser with the site calibration system and again got anomalous results with negative NO2, which supports our thoughts that something may be wrong with both the original analyser and the calibration system. In light of this I'm currently scaling it based on the workshop reset of 1:1 not these results. The data since it went in using the 1:1 response factors is much more in line with North Bank and Putney High Street.

The original analyser and whole calibration system is on it's way to ET workshop for testing.

Latest update:

Been talking to ET today. Their plan is to install a hot spare analyser, and remove the analyser along with all the site calibration system (Cylinder, regulator, critical flow orifice etc) all back to the workshop so that they can test all elements which might be in question. They are just trying to sort the logistics of getting a spare NOX unit up here asap. The plan just discussed is for one engineer will bring a spare from their base, [REDACTED] remove the current LB4 unit, meet up, swap over, then Jonathan install the spare whilst the current unit is taken back to workshop. They are hoping to get this done tomorrow but definitely by Friday.

I've just issued a callout for this to ET. I raised the priority on it from standard to high. It'll be down to how fast they can get out to it. I'll call them in a bit to emphasis

I think we are happy now that the cylinder is not oxidised but that the underlying instrument issues were the root cause of that suspicion. We will however be getting it replaced anyway.

█ and I have discussed this and we can't see any way that the data since reinstallation can be trusted.

Appreciating how high profile this site is I got our LSO to rearrange visits and she's back from there. Unfortunately her results again show a NOX response lower than the NO, so since this was reset to the ET cylinder last week I can only think that there is something wrong with the instrument, and possibly also the critical flow orifice which is in the calibration path and should regulate the flow rate. She got almost the same NO response at two different regulator outlet pressure, ours (1.5 bar) and what the ET engineer used (6 psi), but 20ppb less response on the NOX at the higher pressure. I'll issue a callout to ET. When I talked to them last week the next step was going to be pulling the instrument and putting in a hot spare.

Hi █

Hope your well and had a good Easter.

I just wanted to check in to see if you know when the LSO visit is scheduled for this week and when the cylinder will be changed? Would you/ ET be able to update us every 48 hours on progress please? We are getting lots of media enquires about the station and it would be good to provide updates on when the audit is scheduled and have an ETA on when the station will be back online.

Many thanks,

I attended site yesterday with the ET engineer and we did various gas response challenges. Initially we saw responses to different tests which were inconsistent and weird. We dismantled various parts of the site calibration system and examined that but found no visible faults. We then reset the instrument again to the ET cylinder, something that had been done last week. The instrument has internal response factors which it stores when it is reset and whilst these had changed only marginally after this reset the responses to the various gas challenges suddenly became consistent across multiple methods. We are now waiting to see if the LSO calibration carried out next week. We are still planning on changing the cylinder although the tests post reset yesterday would indicate that it is not oxidised and it was weird instrument response that was indicating this. The concentrations we are seeing are however well down on those indicated on the cylinder label so still suspect.

Even if the instrument is now shown to be behaving normally it seems unlikely that at this stage we will be able to save the data back to when it was installed because we can not have confidence in the response it was giving.

Subject: FW: Brixton Air Quality Monitoring Station - water ingress

Hi [REDACTED]

I'm pleased to say the Brixton station is now back online.

It turns out there isn't a water ingress problem- when opening the station water dripped in from the rim of the door. After all the problems last time, the contractor looking at the station was a bit overzealous and was convinced the station had a leak again.

Sorry for causing all the panic and pleased everything is ok.

Kind regards

Subject: Brixton Air Quality Monitoring Station - water ingress

Hi all,

I work in the Sustainability Team with [REDACTED] (Cc'd).

I am contacting you as unfortunately our Air Quality Monitoring Station in Brixton suffered water ingress again; we are working on repairing the fixed station, but in the meantime we want to continue monitoring.

[REDACTED] while repairing the fixed station, we want to continue monitoring with one of your light weight devices from New Zealand. Could you send me a quote for a third device, let us know what the power requirements are, and how quickly we can get it out there? It will need to be up and running in a couple of days. If this wasn't possible, we will move the New Zealand device that we have at the Town Hall there, and when the third arrives we will put it in the Town Hall.

[REDACTED], once we know the power requirements from Simon, could you let me know if and how you can meet them?

[REDACTED] we have already contacted ET and we are hopeful the fixed station will be running shortly, but based on the problems we had last time we want to ensure there was continuous monitoring, just in case the repairing takes longer. If we wanted to put a temporary device ASAP, who we would we need to get permission from at TfL? If it wasn't possible to put a device up in a couple of days, do you think we could put the device and apply for retrospective permission? The New Zealand device is similar to the C40 monitoring project. Who did you get permission from at TfL for the project, as the station is on the TLRN?

Thank you all for your support with this. If we work together hopefully we will get this sorted in a short period of time.

Kind regards,

[REDACTED]
