Special letter to victims of serious sexual assault and rape attending the Havens, London

Dear Haven attendee,

I am the Metropolitan Police Commissioner, the chief police officer responsible for crime and policing in London.

The Haven: The Havens are a 24 hour, 365 day acute service for victims of serious sexual assault and rape, paid for by the Mayor of London and the National Health Service. Whether you report to the police or not, I hope that you will feel safe here, be able to tell your story, and that you receive the medical care and follow-up support that you need.

The Metropolitan police take sexual assault and rape seriously: Rape and sexual assault are very serious crimes against the person. They also have significant implications for public safety. The Metropolitan police will investigate these crimes and deal with the perpetrators as a matter of priority. We prefer that you report directly and as early as possible as this helps evidence collection.

Police response to a report of a crime: If you wish, you can give information and may be able to have samples taken that can be used to detect and prosecute a crime. In London we have specially trained police officers: Sexual Offences Investigation Team (SOIT) and Child Abuse Investigation Team (CAIT) officers are experienced in responding to reports of sexual assault. We can offer that you talk to a SOIT officer anonymously. They understand the need to listen, to question sensitively and to respect your dignity. The police officers will support you when and where they can, and will keep you informed. Some reports can proceed to prosecution. Some will be taken through the Criminal Justice System to Court. We also link victims of crime to other services including Rape Crisis and Independent Sexual Violence Advisors/Advocates (ISVAs). ISVAs offer emotional and practical support.

If you have concerns about reporting to the police: Some people have concerns about involving the police. Some are worried that their assault will not be taken seriously. Some people have been in trouble previously, or have insecure immigration status. Some have taken recreational drugs, or are sex workers, or are just not sure exactly what happened. I cannot make a guarantee about every police officers' actions in all cases. But I would like to reassure you that my main priority is the investigation and tackling of these very serious crimes. Thus, these sorts of issues are usually irrelevant and will not be held against you. Previous convictions should not be held against you when reporting the serious crime of rape or sexual assault.

Please may I urge you to talk to the police, or at least pass information on to us.

Yours sincerely,

Cressida Dick
Metropolitan Police Service Commissioner
