Police forces in the United Kingdom are routinely required to provide crime statistics to government bodies and the recording criteria is set nationally. However, the systems used for recording these figures are not generic, nor are the procedures used locally in capturing the crime data. It should be noted that for these reasons this force's response to your questions should not be used for comparison purposes with any other response you may receive.

Nature of data: Recorded crime data (i.e. offences were extracted based upon when they were reported to the BTP)

1) There will be certain locations within the Station fields which do not obviously align to identifiable tube stations. London BTP systems has changed since the introduction of the NICHE crime recording system in February 2016, and as such on occasion will name LU locations differently than the previous pre-NICHE system naming structure. This summarised list always translate as expected in the data collation process concerning specific station names, examples of these are listed below. Such locations where offences have occurred are within the London Underground footprint and until data reporting lists are updated please treat these anomalies independently from those clearly specified. These anomalies are small and are not uncommon in large data sets and are not expected to hinder any meaningful results.

2) The information is presented in 9 tabs, one for each of the time periods required, as either:

a. "All" / "Station" / "Non-Station"

b. The BTP records offences against a station/location which is either the location where the offence occurred, or is treated as a journey between a start and end station.

c. These tabs represent either "All" offences irrespective of whether the offence occurred at station or en route; at "station" to denote offences which occurred at each station/location; "non-station" to denote offences which occurred elsewhere on the network; and "end of journey" to denote offences recorded against an end of journey station/location.
