

Gridlocked: how planning can ease London’s electricity constraints

London skyline unknown

Key information

Publication type: Current investigation

Publication status: Adopted

Publication date: Monday 1 December 2025

d

The London Assembly Planning and Regeneration Committee has published the report: Gridlocked: how planning can ease London’s electricity constraints. The report highlights the increasing pressure on London’s electricity grid, and the need to plan for both digital infrastructure and new homes, particularly in areas like West London where capacity has been stretched to its limits.

Read the report in full