Foreword

Young people are the future of our city, but for the most disadvantaged young Londoners, the past few years have left them feeling uncertain about what their own future holds.

The pandemic disproportionately affected disadvantaged young people. Not only were they most impacted by school closures and job market shocks, the inequalities that exist between them and their peers were exacerbated and further entrenched.

And while all young people felt the consequences of Covid-19, for some young Londoners it exposed just how unequal their access to opportunity is.

This cannot continue.

We know that tackling inequalities of this scale requires widespread change. Ensuring young people have access to positive opportunities is central to this.

That's why our New Deal for Young People was created; to ensure 100,000 disadvantaged young Londoners have access to high quality mentoring.

We want young people to feel empowered to take ownership of their lives and their futures. But to do so they need to not only see their potential; they need to truly believe in it too.

Mentoring supports them to do this. As adults, we all know the advantages that can come from having a mentor figure in our life.

Whether through our own personal or professional development, many of us will have seen that having someone outside of our family and friends to work through problems with and to challenge our thinking can be invaluable.

We will have also seen the many advantages that can come from having someone help widen our social circles, giving us opportunities to connect with people from different backgrounds to our own.

We believe this type of relationship should be available to everyone, no matter where you come from or what your age is.

And young people do too. They tell us how a positive, caring relationship with a trusted adult can have a meaningful impact on their life.

We want young people to feel empowered to take ownership of their lives and their futures. But to do so they need to not only see their potential; they need to truly believe in it too.

We know that mentoring can be transformational. That’s why we’re on a mission to support organisations that deliver high quality mentoring. We want to increase the number of young people in need of support accessing this opportunity.

And we want you to be a part of this mission...

This Mentoring Quality Framework has been designed with and for the voluntary and community sector, with the help of Bloomberg Philanthropies and Action for Race Equality, to support the delivery of high-quality mentoring opportunities.

We hope it will help organisations evaluate their own models and identify strengths and areas for development, ensuring that every disadvantaged young person has access to high quality mentoring.

Young people are the future of our city. Now it’s time for every single young Londoner to believe in theirs.

Introduction

WHAT IS THE MENTORING QUALITY FRAMEWORK?

The Framework is a self-assessment tool to help organisations that provide mentoring for young people reflect and develop their practice. It can highlight areas of good practice and areas for growth, helping organisations provide the best support they can to young people in need.

The Framework is designed to meet the needs of all organisations delivering mentoring for young people, whatever their size, structure or experience. It is not a manual for how to deliver mentoring or a judgement on practice. It is an opportunity to look at the quality and impact of mentoring work, building on what is going well and making positive changes.

✔ An effective self-assessment tool

✔ Highlights areas of good practice and areas for growth

✔ Helps organisations provide the best support

✔ Designed to meet the needs of all mentoring organisations (large or small)

✔ An opportunity to look at the quality and impact of mentoring

✔ A way of making positive change

WHY USE THE FRAMEWORK?

The Framework offers a structure to reflect on a mentoring programme – what’s working well, and what could be improved. Users have told us that it:

Helps us to focus on where we need to develop

Is a useful set of prompts for discussion and reflection

Encourages us to think deeply about our offer for young people and how we could improve

Is easy to use and thorough

Organisations that complete the Framework will have access to support including training, master classes, one to one support and microgrants that are designed to help to develop and promote excellent mentoring practice.

Organisations applying for funding through the New Deal for Young People must complete the Framework to show a commitment to the continuous development of mentoring practice.

We are delighted that this pioneering Mentoring Framework has been produced outlining the key indicators of effective mentoring. It will help to strengthen the local mentoring ecosystem across London and beyond.

Alveena Malik, CEO and Co Founder of One Million Mentors

This Framework for quality mentoring is a useful self-assessment tool for youth organisations. It also has wider applicability to other forms of trusted relationship in youth work. We welcome the GLA's aim to support those relationships; trusted relationships need to be at the heart of how we support young people in the incredibly challenging context they are living through.

Rosemary Watt-Wyness,
CEO London Youth

HOW WAS IT DEVELOPED?

A first draft of the Framework was developed by Action for Race Equality in partnership with the Mayor of London and Bloomberg Philanthropies. Since then, youth sector stakeholders have analysed and shaped it through a series of consultations. These include with young people, expert mentoring organisations and local authorities.

WHO IS IT FOR?

The Framework is for any organisation that provides mentoring for young people, whatever their size or mentoring model, whether formal or informal. For example, volunteer mentoring, professional mentoring, online mentoring, peer mentoring and sports-based mentoring. Some indicators may be less relevant, depending on the mentoring model, but all mentoring organisations should find it useful. We encourage smaller organisations to dip into the Framework, focusing on the core-indicators first and accessing support by emailing newdealforyoungpeople@london.gov.uk

The Framework is not intended to be used by young people or mentors directly. We recommend that the Framework is used by staff managing mentoring programmes, with input from colleagues across the organisation.

HOW DO YOU USE IT?

The Framework sets out eight Mentoring Standards that are the basis for a quality mentoring programme:

- ● Standard 1: Programme design and development
- ● Standard 2: Recruitment, selection and screening of mentors and mentees
- ● Standard 3: Induction, training and support
- ● Standard 4: Matching and relationship
- ● Standard 5: The mentee's voice
- ● Standard 6: The mentoring practice
- ● Standard 7: Monitoring and evaluation
- ● Standard 8: Management and leadership of the organisation

Each standard is broken down into 'Indicators' that set out how an organisation can put the standard into practice. We provide examples of evidence that can be used to demonstrate the indicator is met ('Example evidence') and a space to record any alternative evidence ('Your evidence'). Based on the evidence, a self-assessed rating for each Indicator can be chosen:

- Undeveloped practice
- Developing practice
- Good practice
- Excellent Practice

After rating the indicator any next steps can be recorded in the 'Development Actions' box.

Across the eight standards, there are forty indicators. Of these, twenty have been identified as 'core' or fundamental for organisations delivering mentoring.

After working through the standards, development actions can be collated in a Mentoring Development Plan. This optional resource is found at the end of the Framework. It is a place to set out positive changes to make, who will do these and by when. There is also a place to record when the Framework will next be reviewed and who will do this.

HOW OFTEN AND HOW LONG?

Organisations who have used the Framework have suggested that it should be used annually, as part of an ongoing cycle of reflection and development.

We recommend setting aside at least a day to work through the Framework, in order to give time to reflect on each standard. This should be followed by a session with mentoring colleagues to review development actions or the Mentoring Development Plan.

Smaller organisations may want to set-aside half a day to focus on core indicators, working towards completion of the remaining indicators with support.

WHAT NEXT AND SUPPORT?

As well as the Framework, there are free mentoring training, master classes, one to one support and microgrants to help develop practice based on the 'development actions' identified. Organisations will also be able to join a Mentoring Community Network. Find out more and access support by emailing:

Standards & indicators summary

The Mentoring Quality Framework has eight Standards and forty Indicators. Twenty of the indicators are marked as 'core' for the delivery of a quality mentoring programme. These have been identified by professionals and organisations delivering mentoring.

STANDARD 1 Programme design and development
CORE	1.1 You have set out the aims, objectives and outcomes you expect the programme to achieve, and the methods you are going to use.
CORE	1.2 You have identified the outcomes the mentoring will achieve and what tools you will use to measure these.
	1.3 You have a process that identifies the target group of young people, what their needs are, and the best methods for meeting their needs.
	1.4 You have a process for regularly reviewing how effective your programme's design is and adapting it in response to feedback and outcomes data.

STANDARD 2 Recruitment, Selection and Screening of Mentors and Mentees
CORE	2.1 You have set clear criteria for the recruitment of mentors.
CORE	2.2 Your recruitment process includes an interview with the prospective mentor. Questions are designed to help the programme assess the suitability of mentors.
CORE	2.3 You have a comprehensive enhanced DBS checking process, run Safer Recruitment practices and have a Safeguarding Policy that demonstrates your commitment to the safeguarding concerns.
CORE	2.4 You have a process for gathering referral data about young people to inform the support received. This is shared on a 'need to know' basis where safe and appropriate with mentors. All staff and volunteers are made aware of the data sharing policy and procedures.
	2.5 You have clear criteria for identifying which young people will be supported through your programme.

STANDARD 3
Induction, Training and Support

CORE	3.1 You have in place an orientation and induction programme for all mentors. This includes safeguarding, expectations of the mentoring relationship, a code of conduct, tools, resources and support available.
CORE	3.2 You provide regular training to mentors tailored to their needs (eg bi-annually, annually, half-day, full days etc)
CORE	3.3 You provide mentors with continuous support and supervision.
CORE	3.4 You provide safeguarding training to all mentors as an integral aspect of the induction, training, and continuous support processes. This is a key part of overall risk management.
	3.5 Your organisation plans for the development of mentors

STANDARD 4
Matching and Relationship

CORE	4.1 You provide information to the mentors covering the core requirements of their role.
	4.2 You have a matching process that takes into account the interests, opinions, needs, and aspirations of young people and the skills, experience and cultural competencies of mentors.
	4.3 You provide guidance to mentors and mentees about how to handle challenges in their relationship
	4.4 You have a clear process for managing the end of mentoring relationships positively.

STANDARD 5
Mentoring Practice

CORE	5.1 Your mentoring programme offers a holistic approach, supporting young people to build their socio-emotional skills and relationships with those who can support them.
CORE	5.2 You have guidance on the context/ environment where mentoring will take place.
	5.3 You have a standardised way of recording the mentoring sessions and a system for keeping these documents secure that all mentors are briefed on.
	5.4 Your mentoring sessions provide opportunities that are engaging and tailored to the mentee's needs and interests. Mentees have an opportunity to shape the content of the sessions.
	5.5 Your mentors ensure that mentees have access to good quality information, advice and guidance suitable for their career, employment and education needs.
	5.6 You have systems for mentors and staff to share best practice to support their own and others' development.

STANDARD 6 Mentee's Voice
CORE	6.1 You have a commitment to young people's participation in how the programme is designed and managed.
CORE	6.2 Mentees and those who support them are briefed about how to report any safeguarding concerns.
	6.3 You have systems for mentees and those who support them to provide feedback about their experience
	6.4 Senior managers and leaders take an active part in promoting youth participation
	6.5 Mentees have the opportunity to share their progress with those who support them (e.g. parents/carers and professionals).

STANDARD 7 Monitoring and Evaluation
CORE	7.1 You have clear performance indicators for the programme and systems in place to measure your progress against these.
CORE	7.2 You have a process for identifying risks, issues and lessons learned. Learning is reviewed and improves your practice.
	7.3 You have a robust monitoring and evaluation approach, which may include an external evaluator.
	7.4 There are regular opportunities for mentors and staff to feedback and reflect on the performance of the programme.

STANDARD 8 Management and Leadership of Organisation
CORE	8.1 You have systems to ensure that your organisation's leadership and programming reflect the community it supports and that you gather feedback.
CORE	8.2 You have a clear management and leadership structure responsible for the organisation's effective delivery, including the mentoring programme
CORE	8.3 You have a system to account for income received and outgoing. You have identified diversified income streams to sustain the organisation.
	8.4 You have in place a clear vision and strategy for the organisation.
	8.5 Your organisation enables staff to improve through continuing professional development.
	8.6 You have effective processes for quality assurance and performance management for staff.
	8.7 Your organisation's policies and procedures are accessible, regularly updated and reviewed with staff.

Mentee's voice

Ensuring young people are empowered to shape and direct the mentoring so that it meets their needs.

Now I am doing mentoring I am a lot more confident. Before I came to secondary I had zero confidence whatsoever, now I have a lot more. I know a lot more elders, I am able to ask my mentor if they have been through what I am going through and he will say I have done this, I've done that.

Mentoring development plan

The Mentoring Development Plan is an optional resource that can be used to collate Development Actions set out in the Framework.

It is a place to record who will complete the actions, by when and the level of priority for each action. There is also space to record when the Framework was completed and set a date for when it will next be reviewed. We recommend that the Framework is reviewed every 12 months.

WHAT NEXT AND SUPPORT

Alongside the Framework there is a package of free mentoring training, master classes, one to one support and microgrants to help develop practice and complete actions in the Mentoring Development Plan. Organisations will also be able to join a Mentoring Community Network. Find out more and access support by emailing: newdealforyoungpeople@london.gov.uk

LISTENING AND LEARNING

We want to hear about how the Framework is working for you, your organisation and the young people you are supporting. We are also keen to include new tips and resources that you may be using. The Framework will be reviewed and updated annually as a result of feedback.

Please get in touch at: newdealforyoungpeople@london.gov.uk to provide feedback and share tips or resources. We would also like to understand whether the Framework has supported the development of your practice. We would be grateful if you could complete a short survey here.

Mentoring for me has boosted my confidence so much! As someone with major anxiety with meeting new people and opening up to people I haven't met, is scary but the sessions have given me that closure that I needed to be able to feel happy with talking to others about my problems knowing I'll get support from doing so.
