I support the general policy to increase affordable housing but am concerned that this will be to the detriment of the green spaces within outer London Boroughs. Green Roofs, although pretty, are complex/expensive and can require extensive engineering work. I do not think that the loss of small green spaces can be mitigated by the use of green roofs. I do not support the replacement of public, green spaces by new large, or small, developments. In London, many people already live in small, cramped accommodation. The availability of outdoor space is necessary for recreational purposes and the related health (both mental and physical) benefits. .
