

Mrs Mary Gill comments

Section: N/A

With reference to the Eastcote Conservation Panel's submittal and Hillingdon's response to the London Plan I agree entirely with all comments made and the reasons why; I have no other comments to add apart from asking that this Plan be carefully reconsidered before ratification and implementation into the Greater London suburbs. There are terms within this draft which could make local residents quite emotional in their response; suffice it to say that as this is not the place to make those emotional comments we will just have to hope that either this plan fails at the first hurdle and/or that the current Mayor of London is not elected for a 2nd term. To put the needs of the travelling community before the needs of the local communities in the Greater London Boroughs seems undeserved, naive in the extreme and will only act as a spark to light a bonfire of unnecessary and avoidable discontent.
