

Jinder Ubhi

---

From: jason harrison [REDACTED]
Sent: 25 February 2018 11:49
To: Londonplan
Subject: Development plans

Categories: Red Category

Dear sir/madam,

I wish to say that I feel the plans to increase Havering's housing targets dramatically would have an adverse affect on the quality of life of the people in the borough, and I am sure every sane Havering resident would agree with me! Sadiq Khan has contradicted himself by stating that he intends London to be one of the greenest cities in the world. How can it be with more housing swallowing up Green Belt land?

The main issue is that successive governments have failed to acknowledge, let alone deal with the problem of over population. Services are already at breaking point.

Jason

---

This message has been scanned for viruses by the Greater London Authority.

Click here to report this email as spam.

---