

Where is the investment in infrastructure. All we have is more and more housing which results in more people and traffic. The roads, public transport and other infrastructure especially the health services cannot cope. It is all very well trying to limit the use of cars but the bus network here is not sufficient. The routes are not always close to where people live or wish to travel. Some lesser routes see regular cancellations or buses being terminated early. Start improving existing people's lives rather adding to the growing misery.

Sent from my Samsung device