There are few outside spaces for people to relax and enjoy good air quality and these are what makes living in London bearable. I do not want to see any of our parks/riverside built on in the borough of Richmond, this would totally ruin the character of the borough.

I do not see how you can introduce any more high density housing in the Borough of Richmond, the whole borough is covered with housing and shops. I am not aware of any brown sites in the borough which one could built on so where is this high density housing to go.
