

Mr Alexander Thomas comments

Page: Chapter 4 Housing

Section: N/A

While I fully support the need for more housing in the London area, I am disappointed that the plans did not seem to make prominent mention of protecting the unique character and history of each borough. Certainly, a "one-size-fits-all" approach should be avoided.

Additionally, my home area - Richmond upon Thomas - has suffered from a serious shortage of primary and secondary school provision and this must go hand in hand with any significant increase in the local population through expanded housing capacity.