It's come to my notice, your dept. Via Mr Khan is planning to push over the top building in my borough which exceeds the amount suitable without building on greenbelt. Firstly, I oppose any new housing here. This is Essex, not sure why we are classed as in a London boundary. Nothing to do with gaining more council tax? Secondly, who is paying for this and the infrastructure? Oh, us peasants? Who are these houses for? People on benefits? London is already over crowded, crime has gone up and all you seem to just care about is your own political agenda. You have closed police stations, I rarely see a road sweeper and if this carries on, I will have to move. The area is already going downhill. Acid attacks, European gangs and ferals running loose. If you think sticking more houses here is the solution, you are not fit for purpose. You have not consulted us as a borough. It's a disgrace. If London wasn't so full due to unfettered immigration this problem wouldn't be on the table. Squashing people into further tight spaces is just madness. Oh I forgot our quality of life means nothing now. Just concrete over everything. Quite frankly, your tenure as a mayor is awful. Oh yes, having terror attacks is part of living in London according to you.

Regards
Sharon Wood
