FOREWORD BY THE MAYOR OF LONDON

I am proud to be Mayor of London, a wonderful city, made great by the diversity of its population.

London is a city of social contrasts. It offers fantastic opportunities to many, but some Londoners still encounter barriers, which limit social mobility and restrict life chances.

When I was elected Mayor I was determined to develop a more integrated approach to combatting exclusion and disadvantage. My approach includes people from all backgrounds, brings them together, and recognises their individual needs. The Greater London Authority no longer develops overarching solutions based on identity alone, or assumed community need.

I am proud of our achievements, and this revision of our equality objectives provides the perfect opportunity to stop and reflect over the past two years, and to crystallise our approach for the future.

My strategy of achieving improved equal life chances for all Londoners is achieving results. We hosted the most inclusive Olympic and Paralympic Games ever, which provided skills and employment opportunities for many and permanently improved the accessibility of London to visitors. We are delivering a volunteering and sports legacy for London, increasing the supply of affordable housing, promoting the London Living Wage, helping to create thousands of new apprenticeships, and investment in to the city is on the rise, protecting our economic position on the global stage.

Achieving equal life chances is a core principal to creating a fairer and more cohesive society for current and future generations of Londoners. I am totally committed to this challenge, and my officers and I will continue to work to minimise disadvantage, maximise opportunity, and ensure equal treatment for all Londoners.

1 INTRODUCTION

‘Equal Life Chances for All’ is an approach that aims to bring Londoners together rather than dividing them. The framework promotes outcomes for a diverse range of communities and seeks to bring real changes to the quality of life for all Londoners.

The Mayor wants the revised objectives in this framework to deliver concrete, sustainable improvements for the city, and reduce the impact of the economic downturn on the most vulnerable and disadvantaged communities.

The framework clearly outlines our aims, recognises the progress that we have made towards achieving equality, focuses on what still needs to be done, and captures this need in our future equality objectives.

This version of the Mayor’s equality framework updates the last document that was published in February 2012. It outlines what the GLA and GLA group intend to achieve in relation to diversity and inclusion over the coming years. Some of our objectives are directly with the Mayor’s remit but many require action by multiple partners, with the Mayor playing a leadership and influencing role.

While London is a prosperous city and an economic gateway, the city continues to be divided by huge inequalities in income, employment and quality of life. Poverty in London is linked to inequality and geography: most inner London wards show higher levels of deprivation, but there are serious areas of deprivation in outer London too, and most equality groups experience higher levels of poverty, poorer employment and social opportunities, and higher levels of ill health.

London is also a great world city and one of our strengths is our dynamism and the diversity of our constantly changing population. London has always, and will always, welcome migrants. It is migrants that have made this city great over many decades, and successive generations bring new energy, skills, enterprise, opportunities, prosperity, and a rich and varied culture.

However, we also recognise that much remains to be done to achieve real equality. The revised objectives in this framework reinforce the Mayor’s complete commitment to tackling inequality, improving life chances, and removing barriers that prevent people from reaching their full potential.

While the GLA is achieving a great deal for London, the Mayor is also planning now for future challenges the city will face. The Mayor has published his 2020 Vision, which sets out his aspirations for improving the provision of housing in London, for increasing opportunities for Londoners and improving their quality of life <http://www.london.gov.uk/mayor-assembly/mayor/vision-2020/ambitions-for-london>

2 OUR AIMS

London is a dynamic world city which has much to offer and remains a great place to live and work. The Mayor is determined that London will continue to set the standard in relation to achieving improved social justice and quality of life for all.

The Mayor's vision is for a London that excels among global cities – expanding opportunities for all its peoples and enterprises, achieving the highest environmental standards and quality of life and leading the world in its approach to tackling the urban challenges of the 21st century. To achieve the Mayor's vision we aim to:

- ensure the capital's diverse communities, particularly the most vulnerable and disadvantaged, benefit from London's success
- ensure services delivered by the GLA group are accessible and appropriate to all Londoners
- support businesses to consider social issues in their corporate planning in order to bring real change to people's quality of life
- work with the GLA group and more widely with London councils, the public, private, voluntary and community sectors to provide practical solutions that tackle inequality effectively
- support the development across the London economy of diverse markets, workforces and suppliers
- ensure the legacy of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games benefits all Londoners
- ensure we communicate and engage with all of London's communities so we understand and respond to the different needs of all Londoners
- seek to influence discussions about equality and diversity at local, national and international levels

3 OUR PRINCIPLES

When meeting the objectives of the Mayor's equality framework we will adhere to our principles. The GLA will:

- use the process of mainstreaming – which is where equality is integrated into everything the organisation does and the work that everyone does on behalf of the organisation
- adopt an evidence and needs based approach where we seek quantitative and qualitative evidence and undertake research into inequality and disadvantage experienced within London
- assess the impact on equality as we develop our strategies, policies and programmes, and consider what actions, if any, may be appropriate to improve upon any identified adverse impacts.
- monitor the impact on equality as we implement our strategies, policies and programmes
- be open and transparent and publish all information regarding our progress on achieving equal life chances
- work in partnership with the range of local, pan-London, and national organisations to create new and better actions
- make consultation and engagement with diverse stakeholders in London a cornerstone of developing new equality actions
- promote best practice

4 OUR KEY ACHIEVEMENTS

Over the past two years significant progress was made towards the Mayor's vision of exemplary equality policies and practices across the GLA. We have continued to further develop the building blocks of 'Equal Life Chances for All' by mainstreaming equality throughout the functions of the GLA and the GLA family. We have also collated and analysed information on the measures of success identified in the framework.

In this section we touch briefly on our key achievements; for greater detail about any of the projects below visit: <http://www.london.gov.uk>

- Reaching agreement with the Government to deliver a four-year affordable homes programme worth over £4 billion for the capital, which will provide homes for around 250,000 Londoners.
- Increasing the London Living Wage by almost three per cent to £8.80 per hour, a rise of 25 pence, to help further reduce poverty levels in the capital
- Publishing London's first Police and Crime Plan – setting out what the Mayor wants to achieve by 2016 and explaining to Londoners what they can expect from the police and from the Mayor's Office for Policing and Crime (MOPAC).
- Hosting the most inclusive and accessible Olympic and Paralympic Games in 2012, which will leave a lasting legacy for all Londoners.
- Opening of the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park, which is set to become London's leading destination for leisure, life and business; a model of inclusive design and of modern, sustainable urban regeneration, attracting millions of visitors each year
- Working with partners to set a new higher standard for the design of accessible and inclusive international sporting venues and promoting accessible and inclusive design through our planning processes.
- Staging another 'Know Your Rights' campaign, this year focusing on encouraging older people to claim benefits to which they may be entitled.
- Launching a European Social Fund youth programme to support young people not in education employment or training (NEET), or who are at risk of being so, in support of the Mayor's youth-focused priorities.
- Demonstrating excellent value for money and outcomes achieved by the enhanced 'resettlement' unit (known as the Heron Unit) in Feltham Young Offenders Institution.
- By the end of 2012 the Mayor had helped to create 100,000 apprenticeships places and had set a target to create 250,000 new places over his Mayoral term.

- Rolling out a high profile programme to promote high-impact volunteering, 'Team London'. 20,000 volunteers provided 250,000 volunteer hours supporting key Mayoral priorities of skills, youth engagement and safer cities in Phase 1 of Team London, which ended in June 2012.
- Renewing our commitment to the integration of refugees and vulnerable migrants with the launch of an update London Enriched. This updated strategy has an ongoing focus on English language for all, and mainstreaming across other Mayoral priorities on housing, education and health.

6 MEASURING OUR PROGRESS

The Mayor wants to provide easy access to up-to-date data on each of the Equal Life Chances objectives.

The GLA publishes data on desired outcomes for London in order to reduce inequality and improve the quality of life in the capital. Some of these are measures of delivery of policies and programmes directly under the control of the Mayor and his partners. Others are statistical measures on issues outside the Mayor's direct influence, but are included as part of the Mayor's role in spotlighting, for all our partners, the key equality issues affecting Londoners.

Progress against each objective in the document is reported annually in the Mayor's Annual Equality Report. This report is a statutory obligation. It highlights the progress made during each financial year towards achieving the GLA's equality objectives. It also shows the latest figures and trends for the indicators of progress against our objectives

<http://www.london.gov.uk/priorities/equalities/publications/mayors-annual-equality-report-2011-2012>

The London Assembly scrutinises the implementation of the Equal Life Chances for All framework with regard to GLA's role as an employer, by receiving regular monitoring reports whilst recognising that delivery is the responsibility of many partners.

While we have made some good progress turning our equality principles in practice, inequality continues to impact sections of London's population.

The Mayor does not under-estimate the scale of the challenge ahead and we are working to put the building blocks of equality in place to ensure that future generations of Londoners will benefit from all that this great city has to offer.

We are confident that with the support of all Londoners, we can bring about real sustainable life changes for all, particularly the most vulnerable. The Mayor is determined that improved 'life chances' become a reality for all Londoners.
